Many generations of the descendants of John White are given in Judd.[11] The note in Savage about Nathaniel White Senior's second marriage does not concern us but its contents are interesting: "He had a second wife (Martha), daughter of John Coit, widow of Hugh Mound, who died April 14, 1730 in her 77th year by the town record and aged 86 by the gravestone. I am impartial between the two but the probability is strong against the town clerk."[12]

THE SMITH FAMILY OF HADDAM

Twenty families moved to the purchased lands, now Haddam, in 1662, of which Simon Smith and Thomas Smith were two of them.[13A] Simon Smith was the father of Benjamin, Simon, Joseph and John.

Simon Smith was a member of a building committee for the church 1719.[13B]

Simon Smith's house was on the ridge to the east of the road, about twenty-five rods north of the burying ground, the land being next to Stannard's.

He was the grandfather of Joseph Smith, the ninth deacon of this church, and was the ancestor of all the Haddam Smiths who trace lineage to the settlement of the town.[13c]

SOUTHAMPTON, LONG ISLAND FAMILIES

In reading the History of Southampton, Long Island, by Howell, I have found much of personal interest. Our ancestors who are mentioned are Halsey, Ogden, Ludlow and Haines. Other families that I am sure are ours are Schellinger, Barnes, Hedges and possibly Jennings. Howell quotes Hinman, "Puritan of Connecticut," Hatfield "Elizabeth," Lewis and Newhall, "History of Lynn," Savage "Genealogical records," and Trumbull "History of Connecticut."

In the summer of 1633 Gov. Winthrop built the sloop "Blessing" and sent it out on an exploring expedition from Boston. They examined Long Island and reported it "a goodly land and food in forests and waters," so when a group of the Lynn colony wished to remove, they turned toward this island. The original "undertakers" were eight in number but they soon increased to 12. They bought a vessel, but later sold it to Daniel Howe who was obligated to visit their colony three times yearly. This agreement was signed March 10, 1639. April 17, 1640 another agreement signed by them and the agent of Lord Stirling, authorized them to occupy eight miles square on any part of Long Island. The price paid was four bushels of Indian corn "in consideration that the country is a wilderness, and that the natives pretended some claims to the island" (!) (italics mine).

The first attempt at a settlement was made near the western end of Long Island but here they came in conflict with the Dutch from New York and withdrew to the eastern end of the Island where they planted the town of Southampton. Winthrop says this was in June 1640.

They paid the Indians for the land "sixteen coats and three score bushels of corn." There were five tribes of Indians on the island, "bold, hardy, and warlike". But on the whole few things happened to disturb the peace. This was owing to the fact that they were always treated fairly and the presence of the whites was really a protection from the stronger Indians on the mainland. One of the Indian attacks is of particular interest to us. Phoebe Halsey, wife of Thomas Halsey, was murdered by the Indians in 1649. Wyandach, the chief, was immediately summoned. On his way to Southampton he apprehended the two murderers who proved to be Pequots from the mainland.

The first settlement was made three-quarters of a mile from the present Southampton Main Street, but eight years later the whole village was moved to the present site. There were 20 men in the company. Each man had a house lot of four acres, twelve acres for cultivation, and thirty-four acres of meadow or upland.

Of the character of our ancestors there can be no question. They were men of sterling worth, the Puritans of England who had come hither to escape the persecutions of the king.[14] They believed that under God they could govern themselves. The change that was taking place in the Government of the Massachusetts Colony stirred them deeply. The accession of Gov. Winthrop began a long period of opposition and friction. Perhaps that was the reason for the removal to Long Island, as to Hartford. Winthrop says "they found themselves straightened." Some have taken that to mean that they were poor. But that was not at all the case. It might have meant that they were straightened for land, for room in which their children might build new homes. But, it more likely meant "straightened in mind." It probably meant religious straits, as Halsey says.[15]

They secured in their land patent, "land tenure by gavel-kind", that is, land was not entailed to the eldest son but all might share alike. This was the rule in only one county of England, Kent, where it had existed always. They contributed proportionally to the expenses. This was the first colony on the continent to adopt such advanced ideas. They did still hold for a time that only members of the church should be entitled to vote, "believing that no man was fit to govern or legislate until he himself was obedient to the laws of God."

A freeman was a man who was orthodox, over 20 years of age and worth 200 pounds. The latter qualification was not required in Southampton. Only freemen were allowed to vote "and if any man be chosen to be a freeman and refuse it, shall pay fortie shillings for his fine."[16]

A church organization was effected in Lynn or Boston in the autumn of 1640, after part of the group had gone to Southampton. The Reverend Abraham Pierson was ordained as pastor of the new church at that time. A church building was erected inside of a year and the school house soon followed.

Of the 20 who signed the agreement, only four were obliged to sign by proxy, and this at a time when many a baron in England was compelled to make his mark. They were men of means and of good social standing in the mother country. Many held arms showing their connection with the upper classes.[17]

THE HALSEY FAMILY

This is a very ancient family. They were first mentioned as de Als in the time of King Richard.

There is a question as to whether the name is of Danish or Norman origin. The word is found in many countries. The spelling went through many changes, Hals as in Dutch, Halse, Hulse, and since the beginning of the sixteenth century, Halsey.

The word in very early English meant the neck, and again to fall upon the neck, to embrace. Another meaning given to the name is hazel (tree). The home of this family has been for centuries in Great Gaddesden, Hertfordshire, England. Howell, the author of the History of Southampton, Long Island, and E. D. Halsey, author of The Halsey Genealogy, both place our ancestor in this line.

Howell says, (p. 263) this family, like many others of Southampton was of high social position in the mother country. Both Howell and Halsey reproduce the Halsey coat of arms. It was given to the brothers of Thomas after he had immigrated to America. The occupant of the original manor in England wrote to E. D. Halsey the compiler of the Halsey Genealogy in 1885, of Thomas, "I should fancy that his descendants would be entitled to bear our arms."

Thomas Halsey was in Lynn by 1637. In 1638 he is recorded as purchasing 100 acres of land. He was one of the twelve "undertakers" or organizers of the Southampton colony, and early removed his family here. He was a delegate to the General Court of Hartford while the colony was still under the jurisdiction of that New England Colony. He signed the remonstrance of 1670. He was named in the Patent of Confirmation Nov. 1676. He married before 1627, Phoebe —— who was killed by the Indians in 1649. He died in 1683. Their children were Thomas, Isaac, Daniel, and Elizabeth[18].

It is recorded of Thomas Halsey that "he remained for many years in Southampton and was the richest man in the town." The appraisal of Edward Howell's estate in one place is a few pounds higher than that of Halsey at the same time, but the Halsey Genealogy says "He was an extensive land owner, apparently the largest in the place."[19] He had much influence in the affairs of the town and was active in establishing the Connecticut jurisdiction over the colony. From the town records it is plain that Thomas Halsey was not only an active citizen but one possessed of an independent spirit, and a strong will and not always respectful to his fellow townsmen.[20] He had been well educated and in accordance with the distinctions of the times was styled "gentleman" in the records, although some of the things recorded would hardly be considered gentlemanly in these days. Several times he was fined for disturbances in court, even when he was an officer.

In 1664, after the adoption of the new charter he was sent as deputy to Hartford. They had petitioned to be taken into Connecticut jurisdiction in 1643 and were admitted before 1645. In 1669 after the court had declared Long Island to be under the jurisdiction of New York, Halsey resigned from the committee to "settle and establish the laws of the colony." All the colonists were opposed to the change but he more bitterly than the most.

Isaac Halsey was born about 1628-9 and died in 1725. In a list of the inhabitants in 1698 Isaac appeared with several other Halseys. He was named as a trustee of Southampton, Dec. 6, 1686 in the Dongan Patent. He was living in 1712. A broken gravestone in the Southampton graveyard says, "Isaac Halsey d. Jan. 31, 1725." It was probably the grave of this Isaac. He married Mary ——.

Joseph, the son of Isaac, was born in Southampton in 1668 and immigrated to Elizabethtown, New Jersey in 1694. A sketch of his life will be found in that division.

THE HAINES (HAYNES, HINDS) FAMILY

James Haines, or Hinds as it was often written came from England to Salem, Massachusetts, as early as 1637. He was made a freeman there in that year. He was married in 1638 and removed to Southold a few years after its settlement, and died there March, 1652 or 3. His widow Mary —— married (2) Ralph Dayton.

James Haines m. Mary ——, died 1652-3. Their children are:

1. John bap. Aug. 22, 1630, m. Mary Thompson.
2. James bap. April 6, 1641.
3. Benjamin bap. Aug. 28, 1643.
4. Mary bap. April 19, 1644.
5. James (2) Dec. 27, 1647.
6. Jonathan.

8. Thomas

John and James removed to Elizabeth, N. J., and were among its first families there. Benjamin married Joanna, daughter of John Jennings of Southold. They had five children, among them James who had a son Stephen who also removed to Elizabethtown. This Stephen was the ancestor of Governor Daniel Haines. This Stephen was too young to have been the father of our ancestor, Elizabeth Haines. He was born in 1704;

THE LUDLOW ANCESTRY

Occasionally we hear of some one who is known to have "picked his ancestors" and built up his family tree. The opportunity to do that came to me in looking up our Ludlow ancestors, and I have chosen the Ludlow family of Southampton, Long Island. I found that a choice had to be made for there were three different stories which were accepted about the original American Ludlow by different branches of the family.

The following is from Howell's Southampton and Banta's Sayre Family. The other accounts I shall give briefly in "The New Jersey Ancestry." I am convinced that this is the correct one but I shall include the others. Perhaps some one will find an error in my choice and prove one of the others to be correct.

William Ludlam, the first of the name, is not on the list of townsmen in May, 1649, but his sons are on that of 1657. There is no trace of him in the New England Records. He came from Matlock, a village in Derbyshire, England. William died in 1665 in Southampton.

Howell says of the spelling of this family name: "The name of this family was generally written Ludlam down to about the time of the Revolutionary War," but in the census of 1698 which he gives in the early part of the volume it is spelled Ludlom.

Very few family names have come down without changes in spelling. Hatfield records one family whose name is spelled 22 different ways in the early records.

The name in old English means People's Hill or Hill of the People possibly of Norwegian or Danish origin. Lud in Danish means "high".

In this census of 1698, the family of Henry (second) is given with three sons and three daughters. Jeremiah is the last of the list of sons and no doubt the youngest. As according to our records he would be but one year old at that time and the Sayres Family history speaks of him as having been born in Southampton, I am certain that he is correctly placed.

The following is from Banta's Sayre Family:

Isaac Sayre of Bridge Hampton, married Elizabeth, daughter of John and Sarah White Smith. Her mother was a daughter of Captain Nathaniel White and granddaughter of Elder John White. Elizabeth was born Nov. 26, 1699 at Haddam, Conn. After the death of Isaac Sayre, Elizabeth, his widow, married Jeremiah Ludlow who was born in Southampton, Long Island and they removed to the vicinity of New Providence, New Jersey, about 1637. In the family Bible of 1737 (obvious error).

Isaac Sayre, (Jr.) appears the record of the death of his mother, Elizabeth Ludlow, who had two Ludlow sons, Jeremiah and Cornelius.[26]

The history of the Ludlow family is continued in "The New Jersey Ancestry."

THE OGDEN FAMILY

The name Ogden (Ockden, Oakden) is derived from ock, oak, and den, covert, a wooded valley or vale of oaks. The escutcheon of this family bears oak leaves and acorns. The family from which we come is of ancient English origin, in Southants Co., Bradley Plains. The first record of the family is in 1453, of one, Robert Ogden, who at that date was of age.

THE HALSEY FAMILY IN NEW JERSEY

Joseph Halsey, son of Isaac, was born in Southampton 1668 and died April 17, 1725 at Elizabeth, New Jersey, to which place he emigrated in 1694. His will is dated November 11, 1723, proved April 20, 1725. It is recorded at Trenton, N. J., and names his nine children of whom Mary is the oldest. He lived at the Wheatsheaf Tavern about midway between Elizabeth and Rahway.[16] His wife was probably his cousin, Elizabeth Halsey daughter of Daniel as the following would indicate. "The widow of Joseph Halsey of Elizabeth executed a release to her sons by and with the consent of her brother, Daniel Halsey of Long Island." Daniel, her father was born about 1630-31, married Jemima. He died about 1682 and is buried in the Wickapogue graveyard. Letters of administration were granted his widow, April 24, 1682, Inventory £964.

General Joseph Halsey (Joseph the second) born about 1695, died Dec. 16, 1771 in the 76th year of his age. His will was dated June 1, 1765, was proved March 25, 1772, and it is recorded in Trenton in the Sec. ~~of~~ State's office. His children were Joseph, Daniel, Isaac, Abigail, Rebecca, Sarah, Hannah, Debro, Rachel, and Anna. All of the children excepting Anna were married before 1765, when his will was made. His first wife was Elizabeth Haines, the daughter of Stephen Haines. Littell does not mention the second wife and gives but four children. He says that Elizabeth Haines was the sister of Richard Valentine's wife.[17] He married (2) Abigail ——, who died Jan. 18, 1777. He and his second wife are buried in the Presbyterian Church Cemetery, Elizabeth, N. J., Grave numbers 877 and 878. He lived near the Wheatsheaf Tavern, between Elizabeth and Rahway.[18] [18] Halsey, Genealogy, p. 49.

Joseph, Jr., (the third Joseph in the line) was born in 1730 and died July 9, 1813. He married three times. His first wife and the mother of all his children was Mary Armstrong, daughter of John Armstrong of Morristown. She was born in 1737. The date of her death has not been ascertained. Joseph Halsey lived near the Wheatsheaf Tavern until his marriage when he removed to Springfield and was for fifty years a ruling elder of Springfield church. His will was dated Jan. 7, 1812, was proved July 21, 1813.[19]

Something more of Springfield and the part it played in the Revolution is of interest. At the time of the Revolution and for many years afterwards it was a part of Elizabethtown. It lay just below the Short Hills, was only a small village, consisting of 23 dwellings and the church (Presbyterian). In studying several genealogies of that time I am led to believe that almost every family there was related to every other family. Our ancestor, Joseph Halsey III who lived here 50 years, was in the militia and of his family who lived there, two sons and three sons-in-law were in the army. Matthias Ross was one of the latter.[20]

Of our direct ancestors living in this region, all were engaged in the service of the colonies and I have found none even bearing our family names who remained "loyal" with the exception of one branch of the Ogden family and they did not engage in the despicable work which some of the young men of the province did. This Ogden family removed to England but later returned and numbers among its members some of the most noteworthy of American citizens. Peter Skeen Ogden so closely associated with the great Northwest in which we live, and Thomas A. Edison, of world fame are among them.

The following is a certified copy of Joseph Halsey's Revolutionary Service.

Mary Halsey, third child of Joseph Halsey and Mary Armstrong, was born about 1753. She married Matthias Ross of Springfield, New Jersey. Several years before their death, at least before 1810 they removed to Ohio, where they both died at the home of their son Ogden.[21] Mary Halsey Ross was not named in her father's will, the genealogy says "because she was portioned before going to Ohio." John Reed Bigham says in his notes: "Ogden Ross told me that after returning from taking his father to the battle of Springfield, his mother put their valuables and bedding on the horse and went into the swamp to hide, fearing that the British might burn the house." That it was an urgent necessity is shown by an excerpt from a letter of General Irvine's to his wife a little earlier, written from the Short Hills just back of Springfield. "You may think your situation happy indeed, my love, when compared to that of the poor people of this part of the country. It grieves me beyond expression to see their distressed situation, particularly that of the women and children. Murder and rapine await them wherever these barbarians come. Were it possible I would suffer a thousand deaths rather than see you in the situation some poor gentlemen here are forced to see their wives and daughters left in."[22]

Of all the Colonial mothers, my interest in her was the greatest. To have lived through those years of terror, spending days hiding in the swamp, and to have brought her family through it all, much of the time alone, makes me want to give her a gold star in her own right. She must have had a wonderful constitution, for she lived more than 40 years after the close of the Revolution.

ARMSTRONG

Another family of which we have only a brief notice is that of John Armstrong. It is recorded that he lived in Morristown, that he was a Scotch-Irishman and a very large man. He died from falling into an open fireplace from which he was unable to extricate himself. His daughter Mary, born 1637, married Joseph Halsey III. She was the mother of all his children.[23]

THE LUDLOW FAMILY IN NEW JERSEY

There is more difference of opinion about the origin of our Ludlow line than of any other line as I have said earlier. I have settled the question to my own satisfaction, but I shall include the data of both sides and leave the official determination to those who have access to fuller information. The following is from "The Life and Times of Col. Israel Ludlow" (H. B. Teetor 1885) (Israel Ludlow was a brother of my great-great-grandfather, John Ludlow, and consequently our ancestry must be the same. C. B. B.)

Sir Edmund Ludlow was a son of Sir Henry Ludlow who was a member of Parliament. His son subsequently succeeded him. Sir Edmund was one of the Judges who signed the death warrant of King Charles [23] Halsey, p. 67.

I. After the Restoration of Charles II, Sir Edmund went to Switzerland and died at Vevey in 1693. (Monument there in Church of St. Martin.)

From the Municipal and Parliamentary Borough and market town Ludlow, Shropshire County, came the grandfather of Col. Israel Ludlow and settled in New Jersey.[24]

From the Ludlow Family Notes of Mrs. Fannie Taylor describing a picture of our Ludlow coat of arms I take the following:

"The shield in a coat of arms is the only part common to all branches of the family. This same shield is the one belonging to the Gabriel Ludlow descendants. Hence the natural conclusion is that as both the New York Ludlows and the New Jersey Ludlows use the same shield, they must descend from the same family. Gabriel Ludlow, married April 15, 1697 to Sarah Hammer, is stated in 'American Estutcheons' to be the emigrant from whom all American Ludlows descended. If this is correct there is no question but that Jeremiah Ludlow who married Elizabeth Smith (Sayre) was Gabriel's eldest son. Besides there are evidences of relationship between William H. Ludlow and both the New York and New Jersey families."

Jeremiah Ludlow is in the list of the first settlers in New Providence, New Jersey, in 1637. It was a most attractive part of the Elizabethtown Grant. The settlers were many of them from the old Southampton home or children of those families. Almost at once, in 1737 a church was built. Jeremiah lived here until his death in 1764.[25]

Col. Cornelius Ludlow made his home at Long Hill, New Jersey. He was a soldier of the Revolution, serving until wounded at the Battle of Germantown. He died in Long Hill, N. J. He is buried in New Providence Pres. ch. g. y. Every reference to the birth of Cornelius Ludlow, both in print and in manuscript, gives his birth place as New Providence, New Jersey. Most of these same statements say that his father came there in 1737. I think that the latter statement is true and that Cornelius was born on Long Island for the date of his birth is 1728, nine years before his father moved to New Jersey.

Col. Cornelius Ludlow lived on his farm on Long Hill back of the present Stirling, Morris Co., N. J. His house, now a century old, has recently been fitted in Colonial style by its present owner, W. H. Guerin and is known as "Sentinel Elms."[27]

General Stryker writes "The good service they (Cornelius Ludlow, major of Battalion and his two superior officers) performed is regarded in history at the engagements of Lundston Bridge, Hancock's Brigade, Three Rivers, Connecticut Farms and Van Nester's Mills. They had an active part at Long Island, Trenton, Princeton, Germantown, Springfield and Monmouth. The Eastern Battalion, Col. Ford, commanding with Cornelius Ludlow as Lieut. Col., was detailed to cover Washington's Retreat across New Jersey, after the evacuation of New York in 1776, a service accomplished with honor and success."[28]

CHAPTER IV

OUR OHIO ANCESTRY

With the opening of the Northwest Territory to settlement after the close of the Revolutionary War, particularly attractive offers were made to the soldiers of the Revolution to settle there. Most of our ancestors of that period removed to Ohio and settled in or near Cincinnati. Reading the early histories of that part of Ohio reveals the fact that many of our names held positions of leadership and trust there, as their predecessors had in New England and New Jersey. The first, whose date of coming is recorded was John Ludlow in 1786. Others of the family connection are Halseys, Coopers, Runyons, Rosses and Bighams. All but the last named were from New Jersey. John Ludlow was a member of the First Territorial Legislature. Ogden Ross served two terms in the legislature. He was a member of the first Board of Trustees of Miami University as were also a Ludlow and a Halsey. Daniel Cooper, prominent in Warren County, was a brother of John Ludlow's wife.

JOHN LUDLOW

John Ludlow, the oldest son of Cornelius Ludlow and only child of Catherine Cooper was born Dec. 12, 1752 at Long Hill, N. J. He married his cousin, Catherine Cooper, a daughter of Daniel Cooper Jr. in 1772. He is often styled "Captain" but we have not found record of his service in the Revolution. There is a Capt. Ludlow mentioned in the New Jersey Archives—no given name. The widow of one Zephaniah Horton, in her claim for pension—mentions a John Ludlow as Adjutant in the Militia of Morris County. (original on file in the Bureau of Pensions, Washington, D. C.). One Charles Marsh in his own claim (Invalid No.

1055) specifies service in Essex County Militia under an Ensign John Ludlow, but no government documents have been found. The only record found in them is of the payment of carting to June 30, 1780, $597.30-90ths to John Ludlow. These last statements are furnished by the Adjutant General of New Jersey, Frederick Gilkyson, the last one a certified statement, November 28, 1927. His father was a colonel and his brother a general. It is hardly possible that he too did not give service but so far we have found no certified record of it. He went to Cincinnati, then a small settlement called Losantville, in 1786. He removed his family to Ohio in 1789. The journey was made in a large schooner wagon drawn by four yoke of oxen. Greve, in the "Centennial History of Cincinnati," tells a thrilling story of an experience of John Ludlow which illustrates the difficulties of transportation endured by the pioneers. He had brought his family across the wilderness of Pennsylvania in the schooner to Red Stone on the Ohio. Here he joined with a trader named McGowan and boarded a flat boat which was loaded with grind stones, castings and bar iron. Two wagons belonging to Ludlow were swung on one side of the boat to balance the weight of horses, oxen and cattle on the other side.

When the boat reached the lower of the Three Sisters Islands, it hit a sunken log, sprung a leak, and began to fill rapidly. In attempting to make the island the bow struck a heap of drift. All of the company with the exception of two little children, William and Elizabeth, five and three years old, leaped to the drift. They had climbed to the roof of the boat to escape the water. The boat was at once cabled to a tree but the strong current struck her with so much force that while she was swinging around, the weight was thrown on one side. The roof of the boat came off and floated away with the children on top of it. The boat sank and all the live stock was drowned with the exception of one horse. McGowan ran to the top of a hill and seeing another flat boat three miles away, he hoisted the signal of distress. Two men on the boat, Hunt and Prince, recognized the signal. Prince wanted to land but Hunt feared an Indian decoy. Finally Prince rowed near the shore with other men who were heavily armed. When they heard the story, they immediately pushed on after the children but they had to row 12 miles before overtaking them. Immediately after the children were taken off the roof it struck a drift heap and was carried under by the current. John Ludlow was one of the first settlers in Hamilton County, living in a log cabin of two rooms on the N. W. corner of what is now Front and Main St. in Cincinnati. He afterwards obtained a deed for a large tract of land from John Cleve Symmes and established Ludlow Station on Mill Creek in 1794 after the close of the Indian Wars. This place was sometimes called Cummingsville. It is now a part of Cincinnati. Here Mr. Ludlow spent the remainder of his life. He was one of the founders of the first Presbyterian church built in Cincinnati, his name heading the list of subscribers.[1]

He took a prominent part in politics, serving a number of terms as sheriff of Cincinnati. The jail was so poorly constructed that it often cost more to guard the prisoners than to try them. "At one time, knowing that his man would escape from the 'board pile' as the jail was called, he allowed him 20 lashes and excused him from further surveillance."[2] He was chosen a representative for Hamilton County in 1798 at the first Territorial election held in Ohio. He was reappointed in 1800 and served in the second session which met in Chillicothe. His name is included in the list of members at the third session, Nov. 23, 1801 and also in 1802.[3]

The History of Hamilton County contains the following acount by William D. Ludlow, son of John, of the early life of the Ludlow Family on their farm: "Soon after the army left in 1794, my father moved his family to the country to what is now known as Ludlow Grove where my brother John so long resided. The ford here was known as Ludlow's Ford or the second crossing of Mill Creek. I was 10 years old when we came to Ludlow's Grove and soon learned we were in Indian country. Capt. Jacob White riding horseback and several wagons came with us from town. These pushed on towards White's Station, two miles above. In less than an hour we heard the cry 'Indians' and soon came those on horseback with some running on foot. . . . Capt. White, swinging his hat hurrahed for White's Station and left with a fighting party, to attack the Indians. They reached the station without seeing the savages. In this affair two of our men were killed—the Indians shooting from behind some oaks which stood close to a run. My father called this stream Bloody Run. These Indians were stragglers. At one time they came to my father's house in the middle of the night and tried to force an entrance. Our seven men stood ready for them, our dogs outside attacked them and divided their attention and skill. After failing to pry open the doors they left. Shortly after this they stole our only good horse and five broken down pack horses. One afternoon the men were rolling logs for burning which my father and I burned in the evening. After the men had gone up the ladder to bed in the loft they saw seven Indians about the log heaps, but a rifle shot sent them off in a hurry. Notwithstanding Wayne's victory in August 1794, these depredations continued for months afterwards. My father made it a rule for each of his men to have his rifle loaded, and in hand on going out in the morning and a supply of ammunition was constantly on hand. The plowman carried his gun on his back, the man with a hoe placed his gun from time to time against the first tree ahead, and when engaged in rolling logs, sentinels were placed so as to prevent surprises."[4] This truly was pioneering.

 rh>My connection is to son John SCUDDER who married Mary King.

    I show her as his 2nd wife.  I show they had five children but I didn´t list them.  Could I get you to send me an FGS for them?

    I´ve included, at the bottom of this message, a FGS for William KING and Mary HAYNE.

    If you or anyone can add, subtract, or change any of the data please advise.  If you have any questions about any of this data feel free to ask!

 rh>I do not have information on the name of ship that Thomas and rh>Elizabeth sailed from Kent, Eng.  If I get any additional info, rh>I´ll let you know.

William Kinge of Salem, Mass., was born in England about 1595, and is first traced in a list of 106 passengers entitled "Bound for New England, Waymouth, ye 20 March 1635" This list includes the following names: William Kinge, aged 40, Dorothy his wife, aged 34, Mary Kinge his daught, aged 12, Katheryn his daught, aged 10, Willm Kinge his sonne, aged 8, Hannah Kinge his daught, aged 6.

There was also another son Samuel King, born about 1633, whose name is not included in the ship´s list, doubtless on account of his being so young, but his King parentage is clearly set forth in legal papers recorded at Salem relating to the distribution of his father´s estate.

As William King selected Weymouth for a point of departure, it is conjectured that he may have lived in some place in the south of England for which it was the most convenient port.

In the Register of the Abbey Church of St. Mary at Sherborne, Dorset, are many entries of the name King, and among them the following: "1616-17, Feb 17, Williami Kinge et Dorothiae Hayne nupt." This is probably the record of the marriage of William and Dorothy King the probably the record of the marriage of William and Dorothy King the emigrants to America, though they do not appear to have lived in Sherborne as we find no further record of them there nor entires of the baptism of their children in the Church Register.

William Kinge on reaching New England, settled at Salem, Mass., where he was made freeman 25 March, 1636, and received the same year a grant of 40 acres at Jeffrey´s Creek, now Manchester, also in 1638, one of 30 acres at Royall Side at the head of Basse River, now Beverly, where the King homestead was pleasantly situated.

The land rose with a gentle slope to the level of a broad field, and the road turned to the left beyond the house, passing over the bridge part way up the hill; the King acres were on both sides of the bridge.

In the deposition of John Weston, Sen., of Reading, dated 24 Feb., 1699-1700, may be found some interesting facts relating to the disposal of this land by the widow Dorothy King and her removal from Salem to Long Island.

Capt. John Dodge of Beverly, aged about 63 years, testified on 28 June, 1700, as to the King property at Royall Side, and described the boundaries as follows: "On the East upon the river called Basse River, William King's name appears in a list of Salem Grand Jurors in 1637, and also on the roll of members of the First Church of Salem; he took an active part in the religious controversies of the time and in 1637, identified himself with the Antinomians, a step which placed him under the ban of the Salem authorities, he was admonished to sever his connection with the sect, under penalty of being disarmed, and refusing to do so, he was directed to leave his gun with Lieut. Danforth.

Mr. King died about 1650-1, intestate; his widow Dorothy and son William settled the estate under the direction of the court at Salem, where papers on file mention the following children: William the eldest son, Samuel aged 18, John aged 13, Mary, wife of Mr. Scudder, Katheryn, wife of John Swasy, Mehitable aged 15, and Deliverance aged 9.

in 1653, she sold the same to Thomas Johnson, Thomas Reynolds and Thomas Barnes; in 1658, she is mentioned in the Salem Court Records as "Dortha King, widdow and Relict of William King, Sen.," in the testimony of Michael Shaflin, aged about 80 years; in 1684, she received commonage of one acre at Southold, where her daughters Hannah, wife of Lieut. Richard Brown, and Deliverance, wife of John Tuthill were then living.

LANDS OF WILLIAM KING

William King was a freeman as early as 1636 and was granted forty acres of land by the Town of Salem in the fall of that year. On February 4, 1638/9, he petitioned the Salem Selectmen 'to have the land layed out that the Town had granted him'.

The land granted to Mr. King was bounded east and south by Bass River, the northerly point being at about the junction of Matthies and McKay Streets and from that point, southwesterly as the wall runs; thence southeasterly to the river at a point west of the School for the Deaf on Elliott Street, near Herrick's Bridge. The cove running into the land at this point was formerly called 'King's Cove.'

Mr. King chose wisely in selecting this site for his settlement. The land is of high elevation, surrounded by water on the south and east, and, though some of it could be used only for grazing purposes, a

The Passing of an Old Family

We publish herewith a picture of Mr. and Mrs. Phillip JENKINS, the parents of E. M. JENKINS of this city, together with a short history of the life of the former, who passed to the beyond at her home at Stella [NE] on 12th November.

Malinda SWEET was born at Jacksonville, Illinois 2 May 1828 and was married to Phillip JENKINS 1 February 1846 and died 12 November 1917. She was the last member of a family of 12 children, consisting of 8 girls and 4 boys. Her parents were pioneers in the settlement of Illinois. She was married at Washburn, Illinois, Rev. Henry WESTON of the Crozier seminary, performing the ceremony. To this union were born 5 children, 3 boys and 2 girls, 2 of the boys dying in infancy, and E. M. JENKINS of this place and Mrs. Neil DUNCAN of Stella, at whose home she passed away, and Mrs. J. H. PHELPS of Morrisville, New York. There are 4 grandchildren: E. F. JENKINS of Lincoln, J. Curtis DUNCAN of Sterling, Colorado, Mabel PHELPS of Morrisville, New York and Gaylord PHELPS in service of the United States Engineering Corps. One great-grandchild, Miss Maurine JENKINS of Lincoln.

She was converted at the age of 12 years and united with the Baptist church and was a faithful member of said church all the years of her life, her faith never wavering all the long pathway. Her brothers and sisters and all their children with 4 to 8 in each family were Baptists with 3 exceptions. Seventy-seven years a true follower of the Master is a long life of service, 71 years the companion of him who is left to mourn her departure. During all of the way it is said that never an angry or crossed word passed between them so no cloud ever darkened their pathway by their utterances, is of itself remarkable.

She was always mindful of those around her and was always solicitous for others and her quiet way of dispensing aid and assistance was one of her characteristics, never any sounding of trumpets but rather the fact of not letting your right hand know what your left is doing.

She leaves relatives from New York to Oregon and from Texas to Minnesota and Aunt Malinda as she was familiarly called will be missed and long remembered by a host of persons.

The pastor of her church spoke from the text: Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord, they rest from their labors but their work follows after them.

Her life of sacrifice was a benediction to all who large portion of its acreage contained as good tilage land as can be found in the district.

The territory within the boundaries of the granted lands is now traversed by Echo Avenue, Pierson Street, Glidden Street, Sturtevant Street, Matthies Street, and a portion of McKay Street.

Within the lands assigned to King, John Friend obtained two acres of land on which he erected his dwelling-house, the site of which is the present junction of McKay and Elliott Streets and near by he located his cornmill.

The acreage exceeded forty, as an early instrument contains an estimate of fifty acres. Mr. King built a house near the river on the north portion of his land and lived there until he died in 1650, intestate. The widow, Dorothie, and William, the eldest son, were ordered by the Court on February 3, 1650, to dispose of the estate, which was appraised at one hundred and twelve pounds, from which William, the eldest, was to have a double portion of twenty pounds; Samuel, John, Hannah, Mehitable, and Deliverance were to have ten pounds each, and Mary, wife of John Scudder, and Katherine, wife of John Swaysy, five pounds each.

John was to serve his brother, William, seven years, and Samuel was to serve him three years. By agreement with his mother, William had the homestead. The agreement was sworn to by John Weston, July 1, 1685.

William King, Jr., who became possessed of the estate, improved the farm of his father and also worked as a cooper. While yet a very young man, he became at his father´s death the main hand of support for his mother and several children.

On December 14, 1665, he sold to Robert Stone, for forty-seven pounds, ´About twenty acres upland and one and one half acres salt marsh

Therefore, I would appreciate getting photocopies of following pages from this book:

9 10 12 14 17 23 24 31 58 59 60 62 67
75 77 78 79 80 81 82 85 93 94 102 111 142 158

305 317 321 324 325 326 441 457 515 573 740 745 765

Since this adds up to only 53 pages and the index you sent was only 11 pages, I believe I am still within the copyright limits.

Thanks for all your assistance. Really appreciate it!

29. GEORGE ROSS was born 1708. He resided in Rahway Township, Essex Co, N.J. where the road from Bound Brook to Elizabethtown intersected the road leading to Rahway. At his death he had more than 60 acres, bounded by lands of James Vreeland (bought of Daniel Halsey), Jacob Terrill, Aaron Richards (some of which was bought of George Ross Junior's estate), Benjamin Scudder, 3078 Robert Clark, Aaron Clark and Abner Cory. He married Ruth Scudder, a daughter of Benjamin and Hannah (Norton) Scudder. Benjamin Scudder in his will, dated 4-17-1743 named his daughter Ruth Ross, and as executors, friend George Ross and son-in-law George Ross jr. Ruth (Scudder) Ross was born 12-13-1724 and baptized 7-11-1725, at Huntington, N.Y. George Ross died 3-28-1786 leaving no will. However his estate was settled 9-12-1789 and it names 5 of his children and 11 of his grand-children. Children:

* 86. George b. ca 1740.
  87. Isaac. He was living in 1789 when he helped settle his father's estate. He was called the only surviving son and received his father's dwelling house.
* 88. Jesse.
* 89. Ruth b. ca 1754.
  90. Phebe. She was deceased per her father's estate in 1789 and it was stated she married John Pierson and their minor child, Ruth Pierson received property in the settlement.

30. JOHN ROSS was born 12-24-1715, probably in Elizabethtown, N.J. It was said he went about 1740 to Westfield, where he resided the remainder of his life. His family is shown extensively, starting on page 356, of The First Settlers of The Passaic Valley by John Littell, published in 1851. He was probably the Alderman of Elizabethtown in 1789. He first married 6-11-1736 Hannah Talmadge, daughter of Daniel and Hannah (Morris) Talmadge. She was born 7-6-1715 and died 8-12-1753. She was the mother of all his children.

John Ross married second 1-22-1754, Joanna Miller, the widow of Moses Crane and daughter of Alderman William Miller and his wife Hannah. She was born 9-15-1728 and died 9-13-1779. On 5-25-1765 John Ross and Joanna, his wife, late Joanna Crane, bonded to Noah Crane (when he reaches 21) land belonging to the late Moses Crane. Moses Crane died 1753 at the age 31 and is buried at Westfield. According to the Crane genealogy, Joanna Crane Ross's son Noah Crane went with his family to Butler Co, Ohio. John Ross Sr and Joanna Ross (Mrs. John) were communicant members of the Presbyterian Church of Westfield in 1763.

John Ross married third 2-12-1780 at the Presbyterian Church of Westfield, Susanna Miller, a widow of Matthias Crane, a sister of Alderman William Miller and a daughter of Samuel and Elizabeth (Thompson) Miller. She was the aunt of John Ross' second wife and she died 11-13-1797.

John Ross died 4-7-1798. His will was dated 11-20-1797 and proved 4-14-1798. He is buried next to his first wife at the Presbyterian Church at Westfield. Children:

Thank you for sending index of all Rosses by Christian name from THE ROSS FAMILY OF NEW JERSEY by Robert L. Ross. Since I am not at all interested in any Rosses, my request was not filled properly.

I would like to have any info on these families:

LUDLAM, LUDLUM, MARSH and SCUDDER

Therefore, I would appreciate getting photocopies of following pages from this book:

9 10 12 14 17 23 24 31 58 59 60 62 67
75 77 78 79 80 81 82 85 93 94 102 111 142

305 317 321 324 325 326 441 457 515 573 740 745

Since this adds up to only 53 pages and the index you sent was only 11 pages, I believe I am still within the copyright limits.

Thanks for all your assistance. Really appreciate it!

Sincerely,
